you followed me around for most of the con and dramatically subtweeted us whenever we left you alone. you made me uncomfortable, you made my friends uncomfortable, and you would not stop asking to hook up with me even though i tried to get you to take a hint every time! 1/?

you felt up on me in front of people till i had to dm you and tell you i wasn't feeling it you weren't even invited to yinzfur, you literally just asked to come along (i'd already made plans to go with friends!) and i said sure. we all told you it was a sex club, so many times.

after anthrocon, i did not want to talk to wolfgang. nothing was at all public - i'd only talked about it to a couple close friends and my parents. my thread was a vent in my notes app. he could've left it. mutual friends started cutting him off because they'd also witnessed his behavior, and he decided to pin that on me, so he reached out with a dm; i didn't respond. he could've left it.

a couple days passed and he reached out once again asking if we could talk. i told him i didn't want to talk to him about it, then he asked again, and i told him again that i didn't want to talk to him. he could've left it.

FakeWolfgang 07/10/2024 12:18 AM
Benny, can you and I please talk?

I really just don't want to talk about it anymore eventually, he said something along the lines of "idk what happened" which pissed me off, so i blew up and told him exactly what he'd done. then i blocked him, and he could've left it.

some more time passed and i learned that he'd teased a thread/doc on myself and others, all to garner attention and vindicate his public image when nothing had gone public, which i still don't understand. naturally it backfired because he was obviously in the wrong, and between that and my eventual response (my original thread), he got a lot of backlash. he could've left it.

the video is something i can't not respond to. this is personal shit that affected me deeply, and seeing it repeatedly hyped up, soft dropped, and publicly used for interactions is gross to me. i'm aware though that this isn't new behavior for him, as expected with a drama content creator who's already been torn down for other situations i won't name.

not once in my thread or anywhere publicly, beyond a small circle of friends, did i even use the words sexual assault. that was a result of wolfgang making everything public, and he was upset that people recognized the situation for what it was and called him out. that's not my doing. any and all public backlash was a direct result of his decision to make it public.

in the video, he uses the word rape. during the only call we've had since i blocked him, in July, i told him explicitly that i was mad that word was being used because it was sensationalizing what happened to me, and i know for a fact that he was listening. now he isn't above sensationalizing what he's been "slandered" with, putting words in my mouth even though we all acknowledged that's not what it was. not once did i use that word other than to renounce it. he used it several times, saying i should've gotten a rape kit if i was so upset.

addendum: i have the clip from the call now!

in regards to what actually happened, he put his hand on my thigh, put his arm around me, rubbed my back, laid on my lap, grabbed my hand on a couple different occasions, and leaned in for a kiss, all without asking and ignoring me not reciprocating. each time i physically reacted and, if we were around others, dmed him privately, nicely, to stop, because i had not agreed to any of the affection. the first time he did this we were in a room with two others, though he says we were alone. i stared at the back of jam's head the entire time hoping he wouldn't notice. i also messaged wolfgang to stop which would not have been necessary had we been alone. i turned him down more bluntly several more times in person, offers to hook up in the con bathroom or otherwise. i don't think any of it was done with any malicious intent. i have said it before, on call with him, and i have no problem saying it now. however, there is no accountability on his end. he's held his mental health and self harm over the heads of everyone involved, idk if we'd be able to tn with jam coming back threatening to off himself with a hose on call because I defended myself in July. there was never accountability - his first fake apology to me was "I'll take the L on this one". he's also since said the situation makes him homicidal

i'm tired of constantly being implicated in things that aren't my doing. apparently just paying for his food, over which he bragged about his dick size, was a romantic advance. him meeting my friends because he'd subtweet me angrily every time i left him alone meant i enjoyed his company. saying "i'd be down sometime" to him asking me once, after looking at my phone and seeing that i was on barq, then turning him down every other time was consent to touch me whenever, with people around. i never initiated anything, nor did i want to at all immediately after i got to know him.

and if i was bent on hanging out with him, why did he meet a bunch of my friends and i never met a single one of his? because he came to the con without a plan and followed me around like a lost puppy once again, he made me uncomfortable, he made my friends uncomfortable, and the droning name dropping and bragging about social media status led to questions like “why is this guy following you around?” he was so upset with being alone (at a con i made no obligation to spend with him, as i’d just met him) that he subtweeted myself and others, left the group chat, and even went to a bar to feign sulking after the fursuit parade. and yes, he did carry my backpack for me for a bit - because he was always there.

sexual assault is, not only that but it’s further expanded upon in the video how after this they tried to get close to me, like introducing me to friends, spending ALL of day 2 with me, 4/27

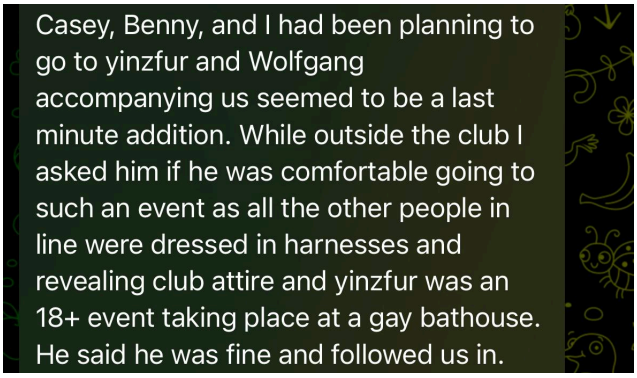
he asked if he could come along to yinzfur and because of the aforementioned guilt tripping, i said sure, as an addendum to plans i’d made with friends weeks in advance. we would be in a group setting so I wasn’t too worried. he admitted he knew it was a bathhouse and omitted the part where we all told him exactly what a bathhouse is. people were wearing kink gear in line and the bouncer was mostly naked, and he’s saying he didn’t know it was a sex event till he went inside. even still, he could’ve left at any point.



Casey, Benny, and I had been planning to go to yinzfur and Wolfgang accompanying us seemed to be a last minute addition. While outside the club I asked him if he was comfortable going to such an event as all the other people in line were dressed in harnesses and revealing club attire and yinzfur was an 18+ event taking place at a gay bathouse. He said he was fine and followed us in.

gibble 07/10/2024 12:59 AM when did it become our responsibility to stay with you I’ve barely known you for a week even now you made my friends uncomfortable, you made me uncomfortable and you only stopped feeling up on me after i told you i wasn’t into it, then kept asking repeatedly while you were with me at the con, which was like the entire con and the lying about the sex club pisses me off because we all told you so many times mind you you kept asking to make out with me after you threw up and refused to go home
i never even invited you, you just asked to

i’m younger than him and not even his friend but i was expected to know his personal boundaries and tell him when to leave an event he invited himself to. as uncomfortable as he was, he wasted no time in asking if we could go somewhere private and disappearing when i said no. eventually, he showed up drunk off half a twea, threw up in the bathroom sink and then asked more than once if he could kiss me, saying he was only there for me. i bought him a gatorade and called him an uber, but we still had to convince him to leave. before the event, he’d tweeted that he was going out and might tweet something stupid, then drunk tweeted the whole way home. both times, i advised him to delete them. after he berated me for apparently guiding him into an unsafe situation, he asked for one on one time again, which i ignored.

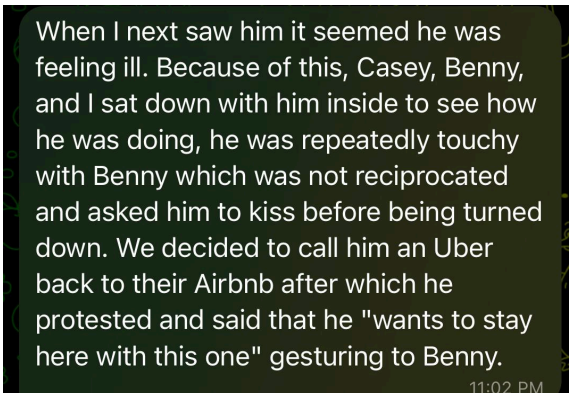
but we went back inside and it was fine
it’s fine



When I next saw him it seemed he was feeling ill. Because of this, Casey, Benny, and I sat down with him inside to see how he was doing, he was repeatedly touchy with Benny which was not reciprocated and asked him to kiss before being turned down. We decided to call him an Uber back to their Airbnb after which he protested and said that he "wants to stay here with this one" gesturing to Benny.

people were literally mostly naked in line and were having sex the second you walked in the door you choosing to stay isn't my problem any more than you drinking was

i'm tired of my personal shit being aired out as attempts at slander by someone who i know is eager for and profiting off this publicity. nothing is sacred. i really don't care if he tweets more victim blamey suicide bait or leaves the fandom again. my only regret in this is ever being sympathetic enough to imply that i liked being around him. leave me and everyone involved alone. i never wanted any of this to be public, and i never needed any validation.

i'd like to add a reminder that consent is never a blanket statement, especially when it comes to a loose "sometime" leading to physically uncomfortable situations. it can be revoked at any time, and most importantly, the absence of a "yes" is an emphatic "no".
